

Randy E King's Bio

Randy King for almost thirty years has been a leader within America's small business and membership driven communities. He was a senior leader with the US Chamber of Commerce (one of the most influential organizations in the United States) for fifteen years and part of the National Training Council with the US Chamber. He was appointed the National Sr. Director to develop the "Major Metro" project that is still in place today.

Randy is currently a Division Director for National Write Your Congressman (NWYC) - a non-partisan membership-based organization related to Congressional communications, legislative research & civic advocacy. He manages 18-25 legislative research consultants in 15% of all Congressional districts, and NWYC accounts for 37% of all constituent pressure that Congress receives. He is on the advisory council to the CEO of the US Green Chamber of Commerce and Welcome Home Troops (a non-profit organization that provides transition and integration support for American Military Service Members, Veterans and their Families). He is the co-producer of the world renowned, StoriesofUSA.com (an interactive 14 language site for young Americans to understand the history of our American Heritage).

Randy has consulted with the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) - the nation's most influential small business advocacy group in Washington DC. He has conducted fundraising seminars for the Arizona GOP. He has been the keynote speaker at numerous chamber of commerce and Fortune 500 company functions and has facilitated board retreats for chambers and associations, including the American Chamber of Commerce Executives (ACCE) & Western Association of Chamber Executives (WACE). His speeches specialize in operational management, dues and non-dues development, business leadership, performance and civic advocacy. He was President/CEO of the tourism driven Key Largo Chamber of Commerce.

Randy authored 8 books on business development, leadership, successful entrepreneurship, and civic advocacy. He has authored a children's book on what America means to our youth, co-authored a book on teen leadership, and has several audio education programs & "White Papers" on staff performance. He has been interviewed on hundreds of talk radio shows nationwide and internationally. He served as a faculty member at one of the top university-based leadership academies in the country - the US Chamber of Commerce Institute of Organizational Management (IOM). He has worked with the YMCA's "Youth and Government" Y-Leaders program and the Student Governmental Affairs Program (SGAP). He has been a founder of successful computer software and sales/marketing companies.

Randy's grass roots efforts through his training seminars, books, CDs, white papers, websites, operational management & leadership, public legislative policy, civic advocacy, and dues / non-dues development, have developed strong community and business ties that allow him to feel the pulse and concerns of American citizens.

Randy lives in Arizona with his wife Linda.
